INTRODUCTORY.

THIS Pedigree has been enlarged and corrected since its publication in the Second Edition of a work entitled 'A Pedigree of the Forsters and Fosters of the North of England,' in 1871, and has been carefully tested by comparison with a very perfect account of the early generations of the Fox family, as shewn by a Genealogical Chart, made out in the year 1840, by Frances Allen (daughter of John Allen, of Liskeard, and Frances, his wife, née Fox, see page 13); and by the personal revision of nearly every family interested in its authenticity.

JOSEPH FOSTER.

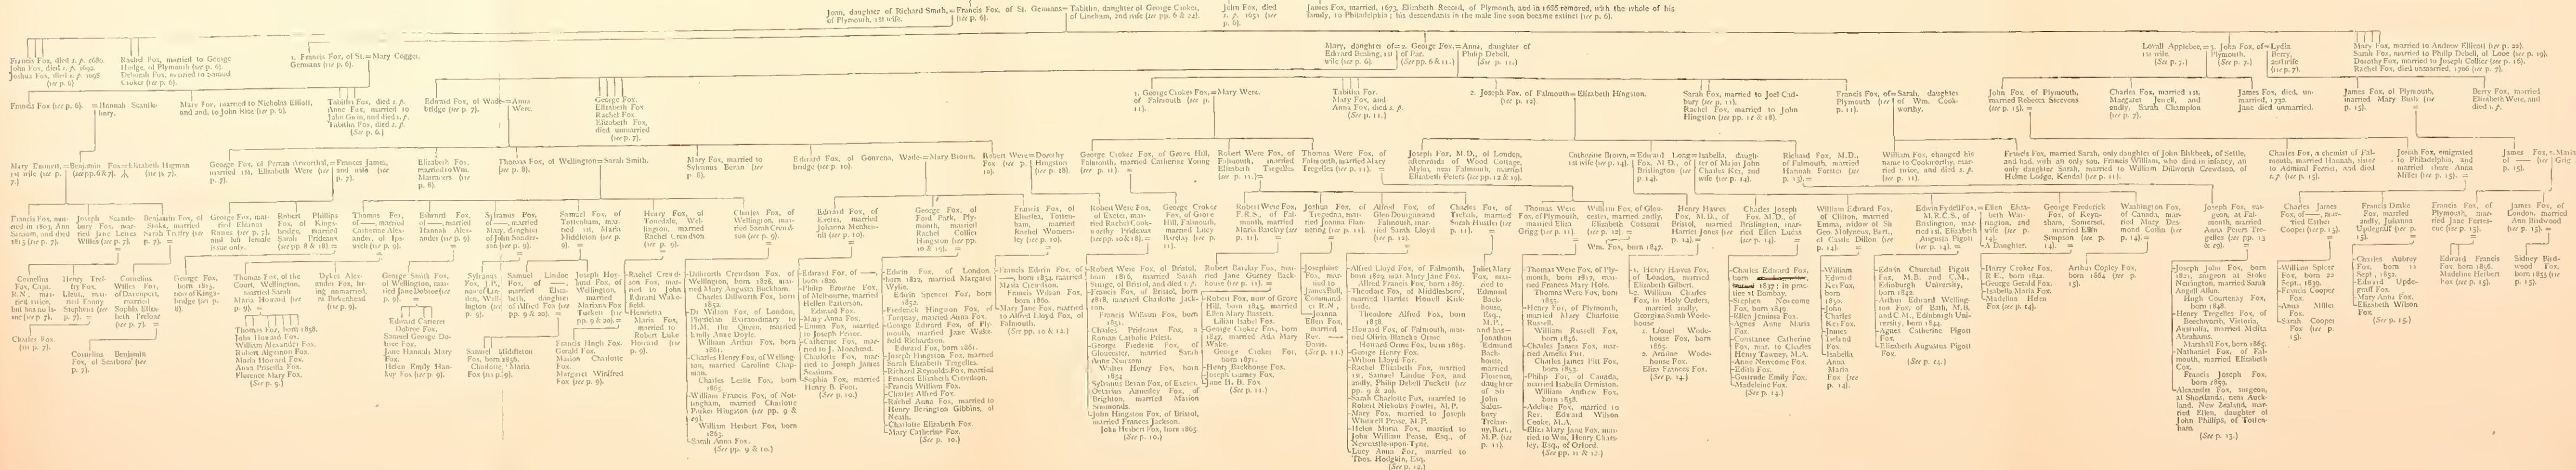

ALLONBY VILLA, NEW BARNET,
HERTS, September, 1872.

In the Male Line only.

—DOROTHY KEKEVILICH She "was of good family, being
"a relation of the family of Kekevich of Exeter,
"whose house at Catellfeneli, in the parish of St.
" Germans, being then vacant, became their residence
"on their first settling in Cornwall" (see p. 6).

James Fox, married, 1672, Elizabeth Record, of Plymouth, and in 1696 removed, with the whole of his family, to Philadelphia; his descendants in the male line soon became extinct (see p. 6).

Pedigree of Fox, of Grobe Hill, etc.

FOX OF ST. GERMANS.

Burke, in his "History of the Commoners," states "that the numerous families of Fox at present residing in the West of England sprang from one common ancestor, a Francis Fox, who married, 1646, Dorothy Kekewich. Tradition represents him to have come from Wiltshire (it is said from the parish of Farley, or that of Pitton), somewhere in 1645, during the commotions of the civil war. He is stated to have been descended from the same family as the celebrated Sir Stephen Fox, ancestor of the Earls of Ilchester and the Lords Holland. It is likewise handed down that he was one of seven or eight sons, and that others of the same family also came into Devonshire and Cornwall, settling at Plymouth and Looe, but left no sons who survived.

"The wife of this Francis Fox was Dorothy Kekewich. She was of good family, being a relation of the family of Kekewich of Exeter, whose house at Catchfrench, in the parish of St. Germans, being then vacant, became their residence on their first settling in Cornwall."

FRANCIS FOX and his family, consisting of three sons, "joined the Society of Friends soon after its first establishment in Cornwall. Some of them shared in the sufferings that awaited its early members on account of the stand which they so resolutely and successfully made for liberty of conscience."

He died in 1670, having had three sons:—

commencement of hostilities with France, in 1778, armed these vessels as letters of marque, in order to capture French merchantmen. He remonstrated against this proceeding, and offered to sell his share, but in vain. The enterprise was successful, and some valuable ships were taken. His partners then endeavoured to prevent him from receiving his share of the profits; but he insisted upon it, and lodged the amount in the British Funds, not disclosing the circumstance to any of his family, but resolving, on the first opportunity, to make full restitution to the French proprietors. On peace being restored, in 1783, he took measures for that purpose, and in 1784, commissioned his son, Dr. Edward Long Fox, to proceed to Paris, where he first communicated the circumstances to him by letter. Much difficulty and delay obstructed the settlement of the business, and early in 1785, while it was yet in progress, Mr. Joseph Fox died. A notice was inserted in the Gazette de France of the 25th of February of that year, and applications in consequence being speedily made by most of the sufferers, an amount of about £1470 was restored to the principal claimants, who made an acknowledgment in the same Gazette of August, 1785, as follows:—"L'avis du docteur Anglais Edward Long Fox, aux personnes intéressées comme propriétaires ou assureurs dans quelques bâtimens pris dans la dernière guerre, publié dans la Gazette, du 25 Fevrier dernier, n'a pas été sans effet; les Sieurs Etie, Lefebvre frères de Rouen, et Martel père du Havre, viennent d'écrire que le docteur Edward Long Fox a satisfait à leur égard à ce qu'il avoit fait annoncer. C'est conformément à leur vœu, que l'on donne ici la publicité qu'il mérite à ce trait de générosité et d'équité qui honore la société des Quakers et prouve leur attachement aux principes de paix et d'union qui les caractérisent." A small sum still remained in the hands of Dr. E. L. Fox, the equitable proprietors of which could not be discovered, and the breaking out of the Revolutionary War, and other circumstances, prevented the disposal of it for many years. At length, in 1818, the sum having accumulated by interest to £600, Dr. Fox again proceeded to Paris, and after instituting various inquiries as to the best means of its appropriation, he placed the amount in the treasury of the Invalid Seamen of France, for the relief of non-combatants of the merchant service, the family of Lefebvre, of Rouen, being invested with a limited power to recommend suitable objects. Thus, as far as circumstances would permit, was the original design of the principal agent completely fulfilled. To the honour of the French character it must be stated, that no claim was made by any individual which was not subsequently proved by the documents to be correct. The public advertisement issued by Dr. Fox drew forth an address to him from a body of Protestants in the South of France—viz. at Nismes, Congenies, &c.,—whose religious principles closely resemble those of the Society of Friends.—Taken chiefly from Burke's "History of the Com-

SKETCH OF THE TUCKETT'S OF DEVONSHIRE.

THERE is a tradition that this family is descended from Ormus le Citherista (i.e. Harper), alias Touchet, mentioned in Ormerod's "History of Cheshire," as coming over with William the Conqueror, and as the son of one of his barons. This tradition of the origin of the family is somewhat strengthened by Shakespeare—Henry V., Act iv., Scene 2, line 35:—

"Then let the trumpets sound

The Tucket Sonuance and the note to mount;"

The various branches of the family have always borne for arms a chevron between three crosses; the tinctures have varied as the exact spelling of the name has. Those borne by their branch were confirmed at Herald's College, in the last century, as follows:—Or, a chevron between three crosses, azure; crest, a Holy Lamb, couchant, proper, having a flag charged with a cross, gules; motto—En Dieu est ma Fiance.

ELIAS TUCKETT, of Christow, near Chudleigh, was born in 1597; there is a certificate of his burial at that place on the 7th of November, 1697, at the age of ninety. He became a follower of George Fox, and is mentioned in Besse's "Sufferings of Friends" (vol. i., page 161) as eighty-one years old, blind and almost deaf, and imprisoned at Exeter for non-payment of tithes.

His son, JAMES TUCKETT, is mentioned in "Leadbeater's Notices" (page 209) as ancient, blind, and a prisoner at Exeter, for tithes in 1732. He owned and resided at the Manor of Abbots Kerswell, an estate which a few generations later passed out of the family, with the exception of the private burial-ground, where the family and their friends were interred for several generations, and which was reserved and still belongs to his heirs. He had two sons and one daughter—

- (1.) James Tuckett, married — Sparkes, died s. p.
- (2.) Elias Tuckett, of whom hereafter.

Pedigree of Fox, of Grove Hill, &c.

- (3.) Abigail Tuckett, married to Jonah Binns, and had two sons—
 1. Thomas Binns, married Rachel Sparkes, and had three sons; Thomas Binns, William Binns, and Joseph Binns; and three daughters, Rachel Binns, Abigail Binns, and Elizabeth Binns.
 2. Jonathan Binns, married Anna Debell, in 1768, and had one son, Jonathan Binns, and two daughters, Anna Binns, and Frances Binns, who married Nicholas Were.

ELIAS TUCKETT, second son of Elias Tuckett, before mentioned, purchased and entailed a small estate called Underhay, in the parish of Netherton, which has never since been alienated, but after the death of his father it is supposed he resided at Abbots Kerswell, which is not very distant. He had four sons and one daughter—

Pedigree of the Crokers.

Arms: Argent; a chevron engrailed gules between three ravens, two and one, p.p.r.

Crest: A drinking cup or, charged in the centre with a rose gules, and surmounted with three fleur-de-lis, p.p.r.

Motto: "J'ai ma foi tenu à ma puissance." It was also written formerly, "Je tiens ma foi à ma puissance;" and in right of the marriage of Tabitha Croker with Francis Fox, all the Fox family have the right to quarter the arms of Croker, and with them also those of Churchill and Bonville.

The family of Croker, or Crocker, was one of the most ancient in Devonshire, being undoubtedly one of the old Saxon families. Prince, in his "Worthies of Devon," remarks, "There is a tradition in this county of three eminent families, that they were settled here before the Conquest, according to that old saw, often used among us in discourse,—

"Croker, Crewys, and Coplestone,
When the Conqueror came, were at home."

He also states that in his time, the then heir of his family, Courtenay Croker, of Lineham, had told him, "that when travelling in Saxony, he met some gentlemen of his name, and that they gave the same coat of arms as he doth, a plain argument that originally they came out of that country." Their family seat for many generations was Lineham, in the parish of Yealhampton, co. Devon, brought to them by the marriage of a Sir John Croker, with Agnes, heiress of Giles Churchill, to whose ancestor it had been granted at the Conquest. By the marriage of Mary, daughter and heiress of Courtenay Croker, with James Bulteel, of Flete, it passed into that family, and it lately has been sold by their representative to Mr. Bastard, of Kitley. Originally, the Crokers lived at a place called Croker's Hele, in the parish of Meeth, or Methe, four miles from Hatherleigh, Devon. They formed numerous marriages with some good Norman and Saxon families, such as Churchill, Pollard, Fortescue, Bonville, Strode, Coplestone, Yeo, &c., &c. "Their genealogy," says Mr. Burke, "is preserved with wonderful accuracy by Prince, Risdon, Pole, and the other Devonshire historians, as well as by numerous pedigrees and documents." This sketch is taken chiefly from Prince's "Worthies of Devon," particularly the note to the quarto edition, 1810, article Croker; Westcote's "Devonshire Pedigrees;" Risdon's "Survey of Devon;" Pole's "Devon;" Burke's "History of the Commons;" various references to the Harleian MSS. in the British Museum, and some coats of arms on an old screen that formerly stood in the church of Yealhampton, Devon.

The first of the name of whom we have any account is William Croker, of Croker's Hele, in the parish of Meeth, Devonshire. He lived about 1307, and left a son, William Croker, of Hele, temp. Edward III. His son, Sir John Croker, of Hele, married Agnes, daughter and heiress of Giles Churchill, of Lineham (see Churchill). They left Sir John Croker, of Lineham, who married the heiress of Corim,* and had a son, Sir John Croker, of Lineham and Hemerdon, who married the heiress of Dawnay † (Sir William

* The Manor of Hemerdon gave name to an ancient family who held it until the year 1296. In 1396, John Croker, of Lineham, became possessed of it by marriage with the "heiress of Corim." —Lysons, "Devon," page 413.

† Sir William Pole makes this Sir John Croker to have married Agnes Churchill. This, however, is a mistake, that marriage having really taken place with his grandfather. It is probably here that the marriage with "Dawnay" occurred, as the arms in Yealhampton Church proved this to have preceded that with the Pollards. In that church there was formerly a shield impaled, showing, therefore, husband and wife. Dexter, quarterly, 1. Croker; 2. Churchill; 3. —; 4. Dawnay. Sinister, Pollard.

Pedigree of the Crokers.

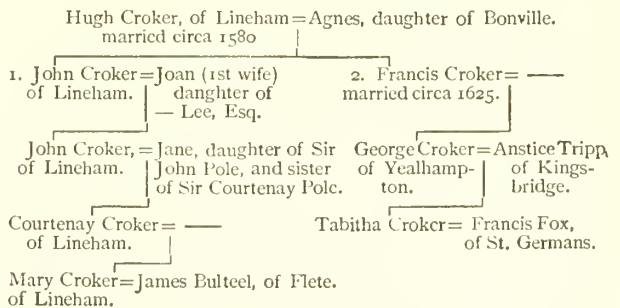

Betham, late Ulster King of Arms, states that this Sir John Croker was at Agincourt with Henry V., and distinguished himself by his bravery). They had a son, Sir John Croker, of Lineham,* &c., temp. Edward IV. He married Elizabeth, daughter of Robert Yeo, of Heanton Sachville (see Yeo), and died May 8, 1508. He was Cup and Standard Bearer to King Edward IV. Prince, in his "Worthies of Devon" says, "As to Sir John Croker, what brought him first into favour at court, whether courage and skill in arms, or readiness of address, or what else, I do not find, but he became so gracious with King Edward IV., that he was admitted his sworn servant in the honourable office of cupbearer, who, in remuneratione servitii, gave a cup d'or, having in the centre a rose, p.p.r., for the crest unto his coat armour, and moreover bestowed upon him the honour of knighthood." This crest was further augmented, in 1475, by Louis XI. of France, with three fleurs-de-lis, p.p.r., on the occasion of Sir John accompanying his master into France. "The addition of the fleurs-de-lis," says Burke, in his "History of the Commoners" (article Croker), "was one of those attentions on the part of the French monarch, Louis XI., by which he sought to flatter the vanity and gain the goodwill of the English gentry." "On ministers," says Hume, "he lavished pensions and pecuniary bribes. To less influential persons, such lighter, but more honourable favours, as this to Sir John Croker. The tomb of this Sir John Croker, with his effigy in brass (see woodcut), is in the parish church of Yealhampton, Devon," with the following inscription:—"Hic jacet Johannes Croker, miles, quondam Ciphoramis ac Signifer illustrissimi regis Edwardi quarti, qui obiit Maii 8, anno Domini millesimo quingentesimo octavo." The son of this man and Elizabeth Yeo was Sir John Croker,† of Lineham, living temp. Henry VIII., who married, 1st, Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Lewis Pollard,‡ of Roborough, co. Devon (see Pollard); and 2nd, Jane Arundel, but had no issue by her. By his first wife he left a son—

John Croker, of Lineham, who married Elizabeth, daughter of Richard Strode,§ of Newnham, Devon (see Strode), and by her had—

John Croker, of Lineham, married Agnes, daughter and co-heiress of John Servington, of Tavistock, Devon, and by her had three sons and one daughter. Their eldest son was Hugh Croker, of Lineham, who married Agnes, daughter and co-heiress of John Bonville, of Ivybridge (see Bonville).

According to Westcote (in his "Devonshire Pedigrees," article Croker), they left four sons and five daughters, of whose offspring different accounts are given.* The following is taken from Burke's "History of the Commoners," Vol. IV., article Fox:—

NOTE ON THE IRISH FAMILY OF CROKER.

Thomas Croker, of Trevillas, Cornwall, the second son of John Croker, of Lineham, and Elizabeth Strode, married Margery Gill, of Tavistock, and obtained, about 1600, the estate of Ballyanker, in the county of Waterford. He had several sons, and whilst the eldest remained at Trevillas (where his branch is supposed to be extinct), the younger ones, to the number of three or four, migrated to Ireland. They were all probably soldiers; two of them, at least, were so, and distinguished themselves by the extraordinary and almost romantic capture of the city of Waterford in 1650 (see Smith's "History of Waterford," page 147, edit. 1774). One of the brothers was killed in the assault, and another (Hugh), after a long course of military service, settled at Ballyanker, and died 1663. From him descended, in seven generations, the Right Honourable John Wilson Croker, LL.D., F.A.S. His next brother, Edward Croker, of Rawleighstown, co. Limerick (who was murdered in the Irish rebellion of 1641), was ancestor of the respectable and wealthy family of Croker, of Ballynagarde and Raleighstown, Limerick (at present represented by Edward Croker, Esq., who married,

* Prince, in his "Worthies" (edit. 1810, note), gives a different account of the descendants of Hugh Croker and Agnes Bonville. It is this:—

* In the Harleian MSS. 889, back of folio 54, this Sir John Croker is called Robert, who married Elizabeth Yeo; but in the Harleian MSS. 5185, back of folio 40, and in the Harleian MSS. 1538, back of folio 104, he is called John. Risdon, in his "Survey of Devon," page 134, makes this Sir John Croker, living in 1497, and who was cupbearer to Edward IV., to have married a Champernown; but this seems clearly wrong, as it transposes all the Croker marriages throughout. He says, "... amongst whom Sir John Croker, Knight, was cupbearer to King Edward IV. ... This gentleman married the daughter of Champernown; his father, the daughter and heir of Bonville; his grandson, Servington's co-heir."

† Prince, in his "Worthies of Devon," says that he was high-sheriff for the county in the first year of Henry VIII.

‡ Through this marriage came the Delarways, or Davies—a Norman family,—and also the Coplestones (see Coplestone).

§ This family still exists in the male line. The present representative, George Strode, Esq., resides at Newnham Park, in the parish of Plympton St. Mary. Through this match came the Fortescues (see Fortescue). Westcote, in his Croker pedigree, page 550, introduces here, as the issue of this Sir John Croker and Elizabeth Strode, another John Croker, who married Elizabeth, daughter of Robert Yeo, of Heanton Sachville, but this must be the same man who was cupbearer to King Edward IV., Westcote having probably made a mistake in copying the MSS.

Pedigree of the Crokers.

1841, Lady Georgina Ellen Monck, sixth daughter of Henry Stanley, Earl of Rathdown, and has a large family), and of a numerous branch settled in Dublin, to which belong Thomas Crofton Croker, Esq., F.S.A., and Anne, daughter and heiress of Thomas Croker, Esq., and wife of Sir Edward Crofton, Baronet. She was created, 1797, Baroness Crofton in her own right.

Arms and Crest: Same as above.

Motto: "Deus alit eos."

CHURCHILL.

Gitto de Leon, of a noble family in Normandy, living A.D. 1055, had issue, two sons—

- i. Richard de Leon, Lord of Montalban.
- ii. Wandril de Leon, Lord of Courcil, from whom is descended the family of Churchill.

He married Isabel de Tuya, and by her had—i. Roger de Courcil; ii. Rowland (ancestor of the Courcils of Picton). "Roger de Courcil, being one of those who accompanied William, Duke of Normandy, in his invasion of this realm, A.D. 1066, had, in reward of his services, divers lands in Somersetshire, Dorsetshire, and Devonshire (as appears by Domesday Book), among which was the Lordship of Churchill, in the county of Somerset, the place of his abode, and from which he took his surname, being written in the old records Curchil, Cheuchill, Chirchil, &c."

He married Gertrude, daughter of Sir Guy de Torbay, and by her had—John de Chirchil, who married Joan de Kilrington, and by her had—

Sir Bartholomew de Chirchil. He held the Castle of Bristol for King Stephen.

He married Agnes, daughter of Sir Ralph FitzRalph, Lord of Tiverton, Devon, and had—

Pagan de Chirchil, who also left a son—

Roger de Chirchil, living in the time of Edward I. His son was—

Elias de Chirchelle. He married Dorothy, daughter of the ancient family of Columbers, and by her had three sons; viz.—

1. John Churchill, married Joan Dawney, and left two daughters:—i. Margaret, married Andrew Hibbersden; ii. Agnes, married Thomas Gifford, whereby the Lordship of Churchill, and other lands devolved upon them.
2. Giles Churchill. He held the Lordship of Yealhampton and Lineham, co. Devon, and had one daughter, Agnes Churchill, who married Sir John Coker (see Croker), and carried these estates into his family.
3. William Churchill, of Rockbear, co. Devon. The family of Churchill, Duke of Marlborough, spring from this third son, through eight generations, to Sir Winston Churchill, born 1620.

Arms: Sable; a lion rampant, argent; over all a bendlet dexter gules.

Crest: A demi-lion rampant, argent.

Taken from Collins' Peerage, edition 1812, by Sir Egerton Brydges, Vol. I., p. 362.

POLLARD.

Walter Pollard, of Horwood, in the county of Devon, lived in the twenty-seventh year of Henry III. "After that, another Walter, in the twenty-fourth year of Edward I.; then Joel; then John, who married Emma, daughter and co-heir of Sir John Doddyscombe, and had issue, Walter, who married Elizabeth, daughter and co-heir of William Cornu, and had issue, John, who married Eleanor Coplestone, daughter of John Coplestone, of Coplestone (see Coplestone), and had issue, Walter, and

"Robert, who married Agnes Lewknor, daughter of Lewknor, of Sussex." Their son was Lewis Pollard, 1465-1540, one of the Justices of the Common Pleas in the reign of Henry VIII., married Agnes Hext, of Kingston, near Totness, Devon, and left a very numerous family, "amongst whom were Hugh Richard, John Robert, Anthony, Elizabeth, who married Sir John Croker, of Lineham, co. Devon (see Croker); Jane, Agnes, Thomasin, and Philippa."

Arms: Argent; a chevron sable, between three escalops gules.

Taken from Prince's "Worthies of Devon," and Westcote's "Devonshire Pedigrees," article Pollard.

YEO.

Nicholas Yeo, of Heanton Sachville = Elizabeth, daughter and heir of Sachville.

John Yeo = Alice
William Yeo = Anne, daughter and heir of John Esse, or Ash, of Westesse.
Robert Yeo = Joan, daughter and heir of William Pyne, of Bradwell.
Robert Yeo = Isabell, daughter and heir of John Brightly, of Brightly.
John Yeo = Alice, daughter and co-heir of William Jew, of Cotleigh.
William Yeo = Ellen, daughter and co-heir of William Grenvil, of Stow, in Cornwall.
Robert Yeo = Alice, daughter of John Walrond, of Bradfield.
Philip, William, Nicholas, Edward, Robert, Elizabeth Yeo = John Croker, of Lineham (see Croker).

Arms: Argent; a chevron sable between three drakes azure, beak and legs or.

Crest: A peacock close, p.p.r.

Taken from John Tuckett's "Devonshire Pedigrees," recorded in the Herald's Visitation of 1620.

COPELSTONE.

Prince says, "When this family first grew eminent I do not find, but if common tradition holds true, it flourished in these parts before the Conquest. However, if so, it was eclipsed as most of the Saxon race were, a long while by the interposition of the Norman Conqueror; for Sir William Pole tells us he had not found any of this name until the days of King Edward II., in which William de Coplestone was set down as a witness to a deed, and also Richard Coplestone, of Coplestone. Which Richard had issue, Adam, who had issue, John, who, by Katherine his wife, daughter and heir of John Graas, of Ting Graas, had issue, John Coplestone, of Coplestone, who, by Elizabeth, his wife, daughter and heir of John Hawly, of Dartmouth, had issue, Philip, John, Walter, and Eleanor Coplestone, married to John Pollard, Esq., of Horwood, co. Devon" (see Pollard).

[Note.—They were wont to be styled Coplestone, the "White Spur." This office was made by creation of the king, the ceremony whereof was thus:—What gentleman the king was pleased to bestow this honour upon, he was wont to put about his neck a silver collar of esses, or SSS, and to confer upon him a pair of silver spurs. Whereupon, in the west part of the kingdom, they be called White Spurs, by which they are distinguished from knights, who are wont to wear gilt spurs. The title of White Spur was hereditary, and always belonged only to the heir male of the family.—Prince.]

Arms: Argent; a chevron engrailed gules, between three leopards' faces azure, two and one.

Crest: A demi-griffin, salient gules, armed or without wings.

Taken from Prince's "Worthies of Devon," and Westcote's "Devonshire Pedigrees," article Coplestone; and also from Tuckett's "Devonshire Pedigrees."

STRODE.

The first of the name was Adam Strode, of Strode, in the parish of Ermington, near Modbury, co. Devon, at which place he resided in the time of King Henry III. There successively followed this Adam Strode, Roger Strode, Richard Strode, William Strode, John Strode, and Reginald Strode, who, by Florence his wife, had issue, John Strode, of Strode, who married Melior, daughter of William Solman, and had issue, John Strode, who, by Jane, daughter of Burleigh, of Clanacomb, in the parish of Modbury, had issue, Richard Strode. He married Margaret, daughter of Henry Fortescue, of Wood (see Fortescue), and had two sons—1st. William, d.s.p.; 2nd. Richard Strode, who, by Joan, his wife, daughter and heir of Ellis Penilles, of Plympton, had issue, Richard, who, by Agnes, daughter of John Milliton, of Mewy, had issue, William, Francis, and Richard, and two daughters—1st. Cicely, married Thomas Fortescue, of Winston; and 2nd. Elizabeth Strode, married to John Croker, of Lineham (see Croker).

Arms: Argent; a chevron, between three conies passant, sable.

Crest: On a mount, a savin tree vert, fructed gules.

Taken from Prince's "Worthies of Devon," and Westcote's and Tuckett's "Devonshire Pedigrees," article Strode.

FORTESCUE.

Sir Richard le Forte fought under William the Conqueror at the Battle of Hastings, whence he obtained for himself and posterity the name of Fortescue. His son was Sir Adam Fortescue, who obtained Wymondeston, or Wynston, in the parish of Modbury, co. Devon. His son was John Fortescue, who received a confirmation of the lands from King John. The succession assigned by Sir William Pole is from this John Fortescue, through Robert, three Adams, and William, to William, who married the heiress of Beauchamp. He had two sons—1st. William Fortescue, of Wynston; and 2nd. Sir John Fortescue (Captain of Meaux), who, by his wife, daughter and heiress of Norreis, of Norreis, had three sons

—1st. Sir Henry Fortescue, of Fallopit and Wood (Chief Justice of Ireland). His descendant, Margaret, married Richard Strode (see Strode); 2nd. Richard Fortescue, of Pulesborn; 3rd. Sir John Fortescue, the Chancellor of England.

Arms: Azure; a bend engrailed argent, cotised or.

Crest: An heraldic tiger passant, argent; armed, maned, and tufted or.

Motto: "Forte scutum solus ducum."

Taken from Westcote's "Devonshire Pedigrees," Prince's "Worthies of Devon," edit. 1810, with the note at the end of the article Fortescue.

BONVILLE.

"Sir Nicholas Bonville, of Wiscombe (in the parish of Southleigh, co. Devon), married Amesia, and had issue, Sir William Bonville, Knight, which, by Joan, his wife, had issue, Nicholas, which, by Matilda, his wife [daughter and co-heir of Sir Thomas Pine, of Shute, of the same family with Sir Adrian du Pin, one of the Knights of the Round Table, of King Arthur's institution, about the year of our Lord 520], had issue, Sir Nicholas Bonville, Knight, which, by Margaret [daughter and co-heiress of Sir William Damarel, of Woodbury, Devon], had issue, John and others. John Bonville died in the lifetime of his father, but by Elizabeth, Lady of Chuton, had issue, William,* Lord Bonville [who was beheaded after the second battle of St. Albans]. He married Margaret Meriet, and had issue, Sir William Bonville, which died in the lifetime of his father, but left issue, by Elizabeth, his wife [the only daughter and heiress of William, Lord Harrington], William Bonville, Lord Harrington, which also died in the lifetime of his grandfather, but left issue, by Catherine, one of the daughters of William Nevil, Earl of Salisbury, Cicely, his only child, who afterwards brought a vast estate to Thomas Grey, Earl of Dorset."

Arms: Sable; six mullets argent, pierced gules, three, two, and one.

Taken from Prince's "Worthies of Devon," article Bonville.

* "William, Lord Bonville, by Elizabeth Kirkby, left a natural son, called John Bonville, on whom he settled his estate at Ivy Bridge; but he, having no male issue, left Ivy Bridge to John Bonville, his natural son, whose name, after three generations, expired in a daughter and heiress, married unto Hugh Croker, of Lineham" (see Croker).

ADDENDA.

Mary, daughter of John Petty Dearman (see page 16), married 22 March, 1819, to George Braithwaite Lloyd, of Birmingham, who married, 2ndly, Mary Shipton, and died 6 November, 1857. She died 16 August, 1826, having had two sons and two daughters.

(1.) Sampson Samuel Lloyd, Esq., of Moor Hall, Sutton Coldfields, co. Warwick, married 1st, Emma, daughter of Samuel and Mary Reeve, and has issue—

BOSTON PUBLIC LIBRARY.

One volume allowed at a time, and obtained only by card; to be kept 14 days (or seven days in the case of fiction and juvenile books published within one year), without fine; not to be renewed; to be returned by messenger after 21 days, who will collect 2 cents besides fine of 2 cents a day, including Sundays and holidays; not to be lent out of the borrower's household, and not to be transferred; to be returned at this Hall.

Borrowers finding this book mutilated or unwarrantably defaced, are expected to report it; and also any undue delay in the delivery of books.

* * * No claim can be established because of the failure of any notice, to or from the Library, through the mail.

The record below must not be made or altered by borrower.
